

Transplant programs fail

An investigation by the Los Angeles Times finds that about one-fifth of the nation's federally funded transplant programs do not meet standards for volume or patient survival established to help ensure competency.